1.0 Introduction

We comply with the EU Cookie Law. Please read this Cookie Policy to learn about your rights regarding the use of cookies. This document (“J G Regan Ltd - Cookie Policy”) can be found at our company website, <http://www.jgregan.co.uk>

2.0 What are cookies?

Cookies are a common type of file that helps websites improve the performance and experience for users by collecting information about a user’s web session, for example, page load speeds. They are stored locally on your device when you access our website, <http://www.jgregan.co.uk/> and accept our cookie policy.

We use cookies to improve the experience of using our website. This document explains why we use cookies, what cookies we use and your rights in relation to cookies.

3.0 Why do we use cookies?

We use cookies to discover how to make our website more effective. Some of the ways we improve the effectiveness of our website include:

- Better delivery of content to improve response times,
- Changes to the format of content so that it correctly renders on different browser types, devices and operating systems,
- Changing how we display content to improve the value of content for customers and to improve the content’s accessibility,
- Improving how we secure our content,

4.0 What cookies do we use?

We use one cookie on our website, which is a “third-party persistent” cookie:

- Third-party persistent cookies are cookies that do not originate from J G Regan Ltd directly, but instead through a trusted third-party provider. The third-party provider is subject to the same laws and regulations as J G Regan Ltd, and we are lawfully obligated to verify their compliance.
- Persistent cookies last beyond the length of your visit to the website.
- The cookie we use is from Google Analytics, a service provided by Alphabet Inc., an American Internet technology conglomerate, that provides analytics for website sessions. The company has provided a policy [1] that does not allow for the collection of any personal data using its services.
- Google Analytics also provides options regarding data collection in their application’s settings, located at Tracking Info > Data Collection. JGRL has “turned off” advertising features to help reduce our data collection to a minimum.
- Google Analytics uses a cookie to track statistical metrics about your website visit. No personally-identifiable information is tracked by any cookie on our website.

5.0 Your right to opt out of cookies

You can stop cookies by blocking them from your browser settings, at the outset of your visit, including specific control over what websites can and cannot save cookies to your device. Alternatively, after the termination of your visit to our website, you can always delete the cookie from your system if you wish.

There are many helpful online resources to help you better understand cookies. The UK ICO website provides information [2] about removing cookies using your web browser controls, and also provides further cookie-related resources.

As our website only uses third-party persistent cookies, opting out of cookies will not affect your experience of using our website, but will enable us to make enhancements based on the user visit.
